

What to do if you find wildlife in trouble

UNIVERSITY OF CALGARY

Do not approach the animal

Injured or abandoned wildlife can still pose a threat to people when approached.

Write down as many details you can about the animal sighting

Note down the date, time, location, behaviour, and the direction the animal is travelling. This information will be crucial for trained individuals to know so they can perform a successful rescue.

Take photos and videos

These are very helpful for determining the animal's species, as well as for assessing their condition.

Reach out to a wildlife organization near you

If you find the animal on campus, call campus security at 403.220.533

There are many organizations that have trained individuals who can help. Follow the instructions they give you.

A list of rescue organizations is attached in the following QR code

Talk to people in the area about the situation

Others may already be aware of the situation and could have valuable information to share. Increasing awareness also ensures we are better prepared for future encounters.
